These should all be looked at carefully....This is such a varied area for people, and animals, and environment, to begin with and there is a place for all!! And all of the above need to be included. Just driving by Winthrop to night we passed a lovely buck with magnificent antlers and I commented how luck I was to be see one so close—And how many people never have the chance to see that. I would chat more but this is the Holiday season with family taking high priority....
